MOLLY'S STORY

At Molly's 2 Year Well Baby Checkup the doctor noticed she had a "lazy eye". Molly saw a pediatric ophthalmologist on January 28, 2010, who looked into her eye and noticed a tumor in the retina, and that's where her story begins...

On February 4, 2010, Molly was diagnosed with bilateral retinoblastoma (eye cancer) as well as a brain tumor. Molly will undergo treatment at the Children's Hospital Los Angeles which will most likely include brain surgery, multi drug chemotherapy, extensive testing and examinations, local sequential treatment to both eyes and possibly a very specific type of radiation therapy.

The treatments will be long and difficult for Molly as well as her parents, Patrick and Shaunna and her brother Spencer. Your compassion for this lovely family facing the most difficult challenge any parent could endure are appreciated very much.
